

Four Quadrants of Relational Discipleship

What happens during an RD Group is one of the most frequently asked questions in Relational Discipleship. As you plan your time together, the framework below is helpful to keep in mind. The four quadrants provide a pathway for you to follow that should result in a well-rounded experience for you and your disciple(s). Each quadrant contains a few potential next steps for you to consider when praying and thinking about the members of your RD Group. Planning ahead and being intentional with spending time in each of the four quadrants will help you guard against falling into comfortable routines that may not result in maturity and multiplication. Ideas of how the quadrants can be worked into typical and unique times together are provided below the chart.
